| The local youth providers network in Stockton identified that a coordinated approach was needed to engage young people involved in anti-social and low-level criminal behaviour in positive activities. Using outreach work, home visits and a referral process, it is hoped that the POSBO's project will act as a catalyst for young people and will explore ways of reducing young people's involvement in anti-social behaviour and supporting them to develop their skills and attributes and through positive engagement their aspirations will be rewarded through sessions and activities chosen by them. |                                     |                          |  |
